There will certainly be a lot of work to do in the coming months, but the fact that the industry is still active and looking for solutions is a positive sign.

But the 1990 census figures were not as bleak, which bodes ill for the 1994 election. Between 1980 and '90, the 11 million new voters made up less than one-third of the population and is a minority. The next census, scheduled for 1995, will be even more revealing.

During the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who were employed in the health care industry grew by 50 percent, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The growth was driven by a number of factors, including the aging of the population, the increasing prevalence of chronic diseases, and the growing demand for health care services. The health care industry is now one of the largest and fastest-growing sectors of the U.S. economy.

These findings suggest that the use of the 100% rule may be a useful tool for identifying the most critical components of a system.

Figure 1 shows the effect of the temperature of the water on the rate of the reaction. The rate of the reaction increases as the temperature of the water increases. This is because the molecules have more kinetic energy and move faster, leading to more frequent collisions.

Underling gave Nayan kidnap gang head away

A DISSIDENT member of the militant Islamic group that kidnapped three United Nations workers, including a junior Filipino diplomat, in Afghanistan provided the tip that led to the arrest of the organization's leader, a Pakistani security official said Sunday.

Syed Akhtar Agha, a former Taliban front-line commander in Afghanistan who founded Jaish-ul-Muslimeen, or Army of Muslims, was captured in Karachi last week. The Pakistani government initially kept his seizure a secret in hopes that his interrogation could provide leads on other suspects.

On Sunday, the police chief in southern Sindh province, of which Karachi is the capital, said Agha was arrested by intelligence agents on Dec. 3 during a raid on an apartment in the Gulshan-e-Iqbal neighborhood.

"At the time, his family was also detained, but they were freed on Dec. 9," said Kamal Shah. He said Agha's family had occupied the apartment for about eight months.

Shah said Agha's real name was Abdul Karim Haqqani, according to a Pakistani national identity card he was carrying. However, local residents knew him as Mohammed Mustafa, he said.

A security official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said a dissident member of Agha's group provided the location of the apartment where the leader was living with his family.

Armed men had seized Filipino diplomat Angelito Nayan, Annette Flanagan from Northern Ireland and Shagpe Hebibi of Kosovo on Oct. 28.

The three were part of a UN team that prepared for and supervised the landmark Oct. 9 presidential elections in Afghanistan.

Philippine foreign officials yesterday hailed the capture of Agha.

"We are encouraged by the relentless pursuit versus terrorism; it has once again succeeded. Efforts are paying off," said Undersecretary Jose Brillantes, who led the team that worked with UN and Afghan officials to win Nayan's freedom.

"It shows that the fight versus terrorism has to go on and we are encouraged by this success," Brillantes added in an interview.

When he arrived in Manila on Nov. 25, Nayan, 34, was reluctant to give a description of his captors or specify where he, Flanagan and Hebibi had been dropped off in Kabul, apparently in deference to the pursuit operations against their kidnappers.

Nayan described their captors as "ruthless," but said that they were treated well, even managing to wrangle a few concessions.

"Generally speaking, I wouldn't say they were pretty kind, but they weren't cruel either. They gave in to some of our demands... All in all, it could have been worse..." he said.

Nayan has requested an extension of his six-month leave from the Department of Foreign Affairs which ended on Nov. 28. He is set to report for work in the middle of this month.

Search for missing crew halted

ANCHORAGE—The search for six crew members, among them a Filipino, missing from a wrecked cargo ship in Alaska has been suspended, and authorities are focusing on the cleanup of spilled bunker fuel oil from the vessel, an official said on Saturday.

With water temperatures around 6 degrees Celsius and the missing crewmen lacking survival gear, chances for their survival are slim, said Matt Early, an Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation official working at the joint command post set up by the US Coast Guard. (See related story in The World, Page A10).

"The active search has been suspended, but they of course will continue to look as they go out and do other oil-related activity," Early said.

The ship, the Malaysian-flagged Selendang Ayu, split into two pieces late Wednesday after running aground off the coast of Unalaska, one of the Aleutian islands. The six crew members were lost when a Coast Guard helicopter crashed during a rescue operation conducted under stormy conditions.

The Filipino seaman was earlier identified as Carlos Flores Santiago, 45. The other missing crewmen were Indian nationals.

The 20 other members of the Selendang Ayu's crew and all the Coast Guard helicopter crewmen were rescued.

Late Friday, the ship's owner issued a statement about the end of the active search.

"At this very sad moment, I am deeply appreciative for the many heroic efforts made by the men and women of the US Coast Guard," said Peter Chew, group managing director for BMC Shipping.

Pro-independence Chen loses Taiwan poll

CHEN SHUI-BIAN, the pro-independence candidate, lost the presidential election in Taiwan to the incumbent, Lee Teng-hui, of the Kuomintang (KMT) party. Chen, who was the leader of the Democratic Progressive Party (DPP), received 35.2 percent of the vote, while Lee received 50.1 percent. The KMT party, which has ruled Taiwan since 1949, is a pro-unification party. Chen's loss marks a significant setback for the pro-independence movement in Taiwan.

Chen's campaign focused on the issue of Taiwan's independence, which has been a long-standing goal of the DPP. He argued that Taiwan should be a sovereign state, separate from China. Lee, on the other hand, emphasized the importance of maintaining the status quo and strengthening ties with the United States. He also promised to improve the economy and social services. The election results reflect the complex political landscape in Taiwan, where the issue of independence remains a highly sensitive and divisive topic.

US, Japan agreed on joint plan to resolve Korea war, says report

A report from the Japanese government states that the United States and Japan have agreed on a joint plan to resolve the Korean War. The plan, which was developed by the two countries' defense officials, aims to establish a framework for a permanent peace agreement. It includes provisions for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from North Korea and the establishment of a neutral, demilitarized zone along the border. The report also mentions that the plan is subject to approval by the respective governments and the United Nations Security Council.

German in BR being tested for lethal bird flu

A German researcher is being tested for lethal bird flu. The researcher, who is a member of a research team, is being monitored closely by health authorities. The test is part of a larger study on the potential for bird flu to spread to humans. The researcher is being tested for the presence of the virus in their blood and other bodily fluids. The results of the test will be used to determine the effectiveness of the current testing methods and to develop new strategies for preventing and treating the disease.

1. Phylogenetic relationships—The phylogenetic relationships among the 10 species of Phrynosoma were determined using the parsimony method of Farris (1993) with the computer program PAUP (version 4.0). The parsimony analysis was performed using 1000 random addition sequence replicates and 1000 random deletion sequence replicates. The parsimony analysis was performed using the following settings: heuristic search, 1000 random addition sequence replicates, 1000 random deletion sequence replicates, and 1000 random deletion sequence replicates. Following is the summary of the data. The summary is presented in a table.

3: If  $\alpha$  is a root of  $f(x)$ , then  $\alpha^2$  is also a root of  $f(x)$ .
 Let us assume that  $\alpha$  is a root of  $f(x)$ . Then  $f(\alpha) = 0$ .
 Now,  $f(\alpha^2) = (\alpha^2)^2 + \alpha^2 + 1 = \alpha^4 + \alpha^2 + 1$ .

MANILA, Philippines — President Rodrigo Duterte's decision to pardon former President Joseph Estrada has sparked a wave of criticism and controversy across the country. Many Filipinos feel that the pardon is a sign of leniency towards corruption and a blow to the rule of law.

Estrada, who served as president from 1998 to 2001, was convicted of graft and corruption in 2007. He was sentenced to 30 years in prison, but his term was later commuted to 6 years. He was released in 2012 after serving less than a year in prison.

Duterte's decision to pardon Estrada has been widely criticized by opposition leaders, human rights activists, and the public. They argue that the pardon is a sign of weakness and a failure to hold powerful figures accountable for their actions.

However, Duterte's supporters argue that the pardon is a necessary step to move forward and focus on the current challenges facing the country. They claim that Estrada's pardon is a sign of Duterte's commitment to peace and reconciliation.

The decision has also sparked a debate about the role of the judiciary and the executive branch in the Philippines. Some argue that the president has the authority to pardon, while others believe that the judiciary should have the final say in such matters.

As the debate continues, many Filipinos are left wondering what the future holds for Estrada and what it means for the country's justice system.

MANILA, Philippines — In a country where the past is often forgotten, it is important to remember the lessons of history. One way to do this is by reading the works of our country's great writers and thinkers.

One of the most influential Filipino writers is Jose Rizal. His novels, Noli Me Tange and El Filibusterismo, exposed the corruption and oppression of the Spanish colonial government. His works inspired the Philippine Revolution and the fight for independence.

Another important writer is Andres Bono. His novel, Alibala, is a classic of Philippine literature. It tells the story of a young man who falls in love with a girl from a different social class. The novel explores themes of class, love, and social justice.

Reading these and other works of our country's great writers can help us understand our history and the challenges we face today. It can also inspire us to work for a better future for all Filipinos.

MANILA, Philippines — In these times of uncertainty and challenge, it is important to be strong and resilient. We must stand together and support one another through the difficult times ahead.

One way to be strong is by staying informed. We need to know what is going on in the world and in our country. We need to understand the issues that we are facing and the actions that we can take to address them.

Another way to be strong is by staying positive. We need to believe in our ability to overcome our challenges and to build a better future for ourselves and for our country.

Let's be strong. Let's stand together. Let's build a better future for all Filipinos.

Reviving the Cebu waterfront

For many years, the waterfront of Cebu has been a neglected area. But now, the city is planning to revitalize it. The new Cebu waterfront will be a mix of residential, commercial, and recreational spaces. It will include a new hotel, a shopping mall, and a park. The project is expected to be completed by 2010.

fabrics and objects to create 24 out-of-this-world furniture pieces. This artist's avant-gardism extends to embellishing benches with carabao horns, gun holsters and the gold-plated halo of a santo.

Novel subjects

Trek Valdez's 11 pieces in oil and varnish on canvas are variations on his abstraction of red on white, some impastoed for maximum texture, others thickly varnished so as to shine.

Mainly unframed and composed of massive blots of red dramatically applied on white, the series is reminiscent of Baumeister's "Mortarum with Red Overhead," or Modigliani's "Elegy to the Spanish Republic." As such, Valdez's art should be halfway between Abstract Expressionism and abstract Surrealism.

Pardo de Leon's nine pieces in oil on canvas, in ochre and pinkish brown, are based on photographs the artist took of surfers on Siargao.

Four are closeup portraits of nipples ("Chip," "Stephanie," "Nelde," one unnamed), four of navels ("Roel's Navel" 1-2, "Michael's Navel," "Ricardo"), and one of the cleft of a derriere ("Michael's Butt").

Meticulous in detail though not quite hyperrealist, this is surprising art simply for its novelty. Why, no one has thought of these anatomical protuberances before as worthy subjects for art by themselves. Rendered in large curves, each navel or nipple is practically thrust to the viewer's face.

The daring of the avant-garde and the inventiveness of the young men in this show and produce artworks of such diversity and richness they could be representative of our visual arts now obtaining. Heady, heady (in both senses of the word).

New book by Sylvia Mayuga

SYLVIA Mayuga's "Between the Centuries," published by the University of the Philippines Press, gathers her columns, articles, books and art reviews, most of them published in the Philippine Daily Inquirer from the '90s to the present.

This is journalism at its best, journalism in the tradition of Nick Joaquin, Kerima Polotan, Gregorio Brillantes, and Pete Lacaba; of Carmen Guerrero Nakpil and Johnny Garbohan; of the pre-national law Free Press, Graphic, Manila Chronicle and Manila Times—journalism as social history, journalism as literature.

The essays in this book document the author's many causes, advocated in her inimitable style, which combines hard facts, urban legend and local lore, with language capable of clean, crisp exposition as well as of vivid, even lyrical narrative.

They discuss contemporary economic issues in a manner which will enable even dummies among her readers to make sense of them. They comment wryly on events unfolding in the global village, and in our own front yards, with imagination and insight.

They review recent books, in a manner that remind one that the best reviews are also political, social or literary commentary. Finally, they dip into the personal, sketching a grandchild, a dear friend, a departed lover, but never crossing the line into the self-indulgent or maudlin.

Says Ramon Magsaysay awardee Sheila Connell, "Reading Sylvia Mayuga is like taking a dive into the unknown. Be prepared for surprises. The result is dazzling."

The book sells for P400 at the UP Press Bookstores in UP Diliman, UP Davao and UP Baguio, in Popular, Powerbooks, Aeon, Magnet, and many branches of National Book Store.
